Reaping - Hosea 10:12

Welcome to Scriptures for Life with TorahFamily.org. Taking time to focus on the Father's way.

Hosea 10:12 Sow for yourselves righteousness, reap the fruit of unfailing love, and break up your unplowed ground; for it is time to seek YHWH, until he comes and showers righteousness on you.

There are 3 things we are commanded to do here. To sow righteousness. Reap unfailing love. And to break up our unplowed ground. The catch is, the first two can't happen until we do the third. You have to plow the ground before you can plant. and you can't reap until you plant. But it all starts with breaking up our unplowed ground.

It's really the hardest thing to do. The planting and reaping is relatively easy in comparison to the breaking up and plowing. Yet, it's needed. Until the ground is prepared and ready, everything else is in vain.

Where is your life at today? Do you have ground that is unplowed? Are there areas in your life that you know the Father is speaking to you on? Don't wait another day. Plow it up now. Start planting righteousness in every area of your life and let the reaping begin.

Let this be a focus in your time of meditation throughout the day. Until next time, shalom!
